American Killed in Viet Nam Ambush

REPORTER'S REFLECTIONS — Tree planting is in vogue — somewhat out of necessity. Disease is running rampant through our elm trees and storms take their toll. In addition, street construction clears trees in a wholesale manner.

The groves in which our town and villages grew up in threaten to become denuded landscapes. For us, who live in such a beautiful setting, this is not a welcome prospect.

Since we are faced with refurbishing lawns and parks, it may be well to pass on some advice from experts in forestry.

First of all, electric utilities take some interest in where we plant trees. A representative of Public Service Co. says, "Because of our mutual interest in tree beauty, we have consulted authorities and are pleased to pass along their advice."

A tree should be located with thought given to its future effect on your house, sidewalk, overhead wires, lawn, play space and garden. Trees with clean tanks are best to plant between your house and the street. Those that afford good shade are better for children's play space, near your patio, porch or part of the house exposed to the afternoon sun.

Tall trees should not be planted under or near electric lines. Sooner or later they will mean trouble and the result may be trimming that will mar the beauty of the tree. Large trees are also more hazardous in windstorms and are more costly to remove, if they die.

Most interruptions of electrical service after storms is due to trees or limbs falling across high lines, according to the utility.

The Morton Arboretum suggests homeowners plant a variety of trees. This enhances the beauty of the landscape, serves the landholder better combining beauty and usefulness and protects against some malady taking all our trees. We see an example of this today with the large number of elm trees we have.

Student Convicted In Germany

BERLIN (AP)—A Communist court in East Berlin today sentenced Robert Mann, a 19-year-old student from Sepulveda, Calif., to 21 months in prison on charges of trying to help a refugee escape to the West.

The judge said the time Mann had been held in prison would be counted against the sentence. He was arrested in East Berlin last Jan. 22.

In similar cases, young Americans have been released before the actual expiration of the sentence.

In the courtroom for the reading of the sentence were Charles Mann, Robert's father; a small group of Western newsmen, an official of the U.S. mission in West Berlin and a representative of Stanford University, where young Mann was studying. All had been barred from the trial Wednesday.

Informed sources said young Mann was accused of trying to supply false identity papers to Uwe Sturberg, 25, an East Berliner who was tried with him.

Sturberg got a one-year suspended sentence. Informants said his parents were tried Friday and also received suspended sentences.

In Sepulveda, the boy's mother, Martha Mann, said the family as well as relatives and friends "are hoping and praying that Robert will be allowed to come home."

Red Viet Cong Attacks Convoy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Army captain and at least 23 Vietnamese soldiers were killed today when a government convoy was ambushed by Communist Viet Cong forces 40 miles north of Saigon.

The Red guerrillas fled after the attack carried out in battalion strength.

Government paratroopers were dropped at the site an hour after the ambush to aid a relief battalion that arrived by road.

Besides the dead, 20 Vietnamese troops were wounded and four were missing. The fight reportedly lasted only a few minutes before government soldiers were overwhelmed.

The name of the dead American was withheld pending notification of his family.

His death brought to seven the number of American servicemen killed in combat with the Viet Cong since the buildup of U.S. forces began here last December. Sixteen others have died in accidents.

U.S. authorities reported that the Viet Cong ambush force was under air observation and was being pursued by fighter planes, U.S. Army helicopters loaded with South Vietnamese troops and transport planes carrying paratroopers.

There was no indication whether the Communists suffered any casualties.

A South Vietnamese jeep was destroyed and two trucks were heavily damaged in the ambush in a heavily forested area of National Route 13, the same road on which two U.S. officers were killed in another Red ambush June 16.

About 280 government troops—two companies from the airborne brigade and a command group—were in the convoy as it headed north on an escort mission.

The convoy was to have picked up employees of an engineering firm working at an outpost. The company and nature of its work were not disclosed, but several civilian contractors are working on radio and radar nets along the Vietnamese frontier with Laos and Cambodia. Rout 13 leads to the Cambodian frontier.

Nixon Presents Tardy Report

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard M. Nixon submitted a tardy report Friday showing he spent $1,156.63 of his own funds in the June 5 primary race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Earlier in the day the former vice president won a five-day extension in Superior Court for filing the report, due last Tuesday at midnight. He turned it in to the county registrar of voters and the secretary of state.

Nixon's attorney, Henry Duque, said the statement wasn't filed earlier because Nixon had been in the East and in Denmark. Nixon did not appear personally for either action.

The statement included $800 in filing fees and $256.63 in telephone expenses.

Missing Child Found

BRACEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—

Lisa Schackelford, 3, object of a widespread search since she disappeared Thursday, was found today wandering on a railroad track about five miles from her farm home.

Capt. Robert Georgantas, acting commander of State Police District 5, said the little girl appeared unharmed and in good condition.

He said she was found near Coal City, in a wild strip mine tailings area northwest of Braceville.

She was spotted by Mrs. Cecil Robinson of Coal City after search parties ranging in numbers up to 1,000, aided by bloodhounds, had failed to locate her in nearly two days of searching.

Fears that she was kidnapped developed when dogs lost track of her scent at the edge of U.S. highway 66. But, police said, she apparently crossed the busy trunk highway unmolested and unharmed.

Robinson got the Coal City rescue squad which took the child from his home, first to a Coal City doctor's office and then to the Morris Community Hospital at Morris, the Grundy County seat.

At the hospital, the doctor, Roman P. Smyk of Coal City, said examination showed that Lisa was suffering somewhat from exposure, but had no apparent symptoms of pneumonia. She had not been molested.

Lisa was bedraggled and distressed in wet clothing when she was seen by

Brazil to Map Strategy

Meeting Called

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—Prime Minister Francisco Brochado da Rocha called a Cabinet meeting today to map strategy for winning extraordinary powers from a reluctant Parliament to deal with Brazil's deepening economic crisis.

Brochado da Rocha overcame his first parliamentary hurdle Friday night when, after four days of uncertainty and bickering, the Chamber of Deputies approved his Cabinet selections.

he surprisingly large 139-53 vote put a tentative end to the nation's governmental crisis, during which Brazil drifted for 17 days without a Cabinet amid spiraling inflation and violent food rioting.

But Brochado da Rocha's announced intention to seek broad powers from Parliament within five days was seen as a major challenge to the new government.

The conservative-dominated Parliament has been reluctant to surrender any of its powers to the executive branch headed by President Joao Goulart, whose Brazilian Labor Party is in the minority.

During the governmental crisis, Parliament rejected one of Goulart's nominations for prime minister and another quit after only 36 hours in office before the stalemate was broken with the approval of Brochado da Rocha, a political unknown, and his predominantly nonpolitical cabinet.

After the endorsement of his cabinet, Brochado da Rocha and his ministers huddled with Goulart until almost midnight, then went to Parliament to thank the deputies.

In an official announcement, the new prime minister, a mild-mannered university professor and former provincial official, vowed to use all of his energy to meet the nation's troubles.

"With the vote of confidence by the Chamber of Deputies, I do not

Macmillan Makes Cabinet Changes

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan's wholesale shakeup of his Cabinet brought new pressure from opposition leaders today for an immediate national election.

Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell called Macmillan's firing of seven of the 21 Conservative ministers Friday night "A political massacre which can only be interpreted as a gigantic admission of failure."

"Instead of getting rid of his colleagues, the prime minister should resign and let the people elect a new government," Gaitskell added.

Liberal party leader Jo Grimond also called for a general election and declared: "After 12 years in office, it is too late for the Tories to try and put a new face on their administration."

Macmillan's Conservatives have a mandate to serve until the fall of 1964. The prime minister can call a general election any time before then, but he is not expected to do so before the fall of 1963.

New Secretary

Kennedy Selects Cleveland Mayor

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy today named Anthony J. Celebrezze, mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, as the new secretary of health, education and welfare.

Kennedy's surprise announcement was read to newsmen by assistant White House press secretary Andrew J. Hatcher. Hatcher said Celebrezze is expected to assume the post as soon as he is confirmed by the Senate.

Celebrezze will succeed Abraham A. Ribicoff, who resigned Thursday when he formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the Senate from Connecticut.

The identity of Ribicoff's successor was one of the best kept secrets of the Kennedy administration.

Celebrezze's name had not figured in the speculation for the post. Many others had been mentioned, but informed sources, without giving any hint as to whom it would be, insisted the appointment would come as a surprise.

Celebrezze, 51, has been mayor of Cleveland since 1953.

Kennedy, in announcing the appointment, said Celebrezze "brings to my Cabinet a wealth of experience gained from having worked through the years with the problems of people, particularly in the areas of health, education and welfare."

"He therefore brings to this great department an intimate knowledge which will prove invaluable in making the department an effective instrument for the general welfare," Kennedy's statement said.

Celebrezze was born Sept. 4, 1910, at Nazi, Italy. Hatcher explained, however, that his parents, who were natives of Italy, were naturalized U.S. citizens who were visiting their homeland at the time. This made him an American citizen automatically, Hatcher said.

Celebrezze, one of thirteen children, attended Cleveland public schools and John Carroll University. He then went to Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio, where he received his law degree in 1936. He was admitted to the bar in Ohio the same year.

Hollywood Man Loses $30,000 on Blind Date

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Reginald A. Wike was excited as he entered the Hollywood bowling alley and looked about for his blind date.

He wore a grey suit, as he'd promised. She was to have on a yellow shortie coat.

"What if there are two girls with yellow shortie coats?" he'd asked anxiously when she telephoned him. It was good he'd thought of that, for there were, indeed, two girls with yellow shortie coats.

He was glad he'd suggested she carry a red rose as he searched for the girl who'd inserted this ad in the personal column of a metropolitan newspaper:

"Attractive brunette, 5 ft. 6½ in., 135 lbs., affectionate, would like to meet nice man with property."

Reginald, a well-to-do landscape contractor, had liked that. He'd written to the box number, she'd called him up, and now—

He spotted her. She was wearing accepted. They were two of the happiest lovers in the world.

But something always kept interfering with their wedding. She kept having to put it off. Meanwhile, he was glad to be able to help his fiancée with her finances.

Seven long years elapsed. He felt this was too long an engagement. He became impatient. Finally, he convinced himself she didn't love him at all—didn't even intend marrying him. It was late 1960. He talked to a lawyer.

Superior Judge Eugene P. Fay ruled Friday that Reginald, now 62, had it doped correctly, that she was after his property. The judge ordered Miss Hackenberger, now 48, to give back $75,000 worth of real estate he'd deeded to her.

But the judge said there was nothing he could do about cash gifts the disappointed swain said he'd made over the years—not enough evidence, the judge held. Reginald said they came to about $30,000.

A PATIO AND A WALL OF SLIDING GLASS DOORS are perfect companions for summertime enjoyment. The patio adds a handy "outdoor room" for family cook outs and informal entertaining. Properly built it offers easy maintenance and plenty of privacy. Thermopane insulating glass sliding doors conveniently unite the two living areas.

Make the Most of a Patio To Gain an Outdoor Room

Dollar for dollar, a patio is a sound investment in summertime living enjoyment for the whole family. It costs little to build and pays dividends in the form of an added "outdoor" room.

To begin with, consider the patio as part of the over-all layout of the house and afford it the same attention as you would a new room, say designers of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company. It should appear as a planned part of the home and not as a thoughtless extra.

When possible, build the patio on the south or southeast part of the house to get the most breeze in summer. Shield it from neighboring property with trees, shrubs, privacy fences or wings of the house itself and take advantage of the colorful plantings from both indoors and out by joining the house to the patio with floor-to-ceiling Thermopane insulating glass.

Since a patio is primarily intended to increase living enjoyment, keep its "efficiency rating" high to avoid making it an area which requires constant maintenance. For example, flagstone paving will reduce the need for extensive grass clipping; raised plant beds make flower gardens easy to reach; evergreens will look well all year with little attention, and potted plants in colorful containers can be rearranged at will to provide custom-made patio landscaping.

Dual-Purpose Farm Rooms Are Valuable

Combination rooms are valuable in any house, but especially in a farm home.

A utility room, for instance, which includes both a compact laundry arrangement and built-in sewing center will become one of the most important rooms for the homemaker. Planning is very important when designing a utility room since appliances must be positioned properly and storage cabinets provided for a variety of bulky items.

Since the laundry center will create high humidity conditions at times, it is important to have a wall and ceiling paneling that will resist heat and moisture. Plastic-surfaced Marlite, which is widely used in new construction and remodeling, provides an attractive and practical solution to this problem. The paneling's smooth plastic surface wipes clean like that on any of the appliances.

Marlite is available at local lumber and building materials dealers in a wide variety of woodgrains, colors and patterns. The pre-finished paneling comes in four-foot panels, 16"x8" planks and 16" square blocks, which are ideal for ceilings.

Good Fences Make Good Neighbors

"Good fences make good neighbors" is a phrase which defines the beauty and architectural charm of imaginative fencing made possible through the use of hardboard.

With today's growing accent on outdoor living, fences have become an integral part of new home planning and designs for better living all over your property.

Then, too, adequate fencing can do much to alleviate the awkward look most new houses must pass through until lawns, plantings and patios are fully developed. Just marking off the area where the patio will be with an attractive enclosure can work wonders for a new home, the fence will have a long life as an important element in the landscaping planning.

Add Dimension
Wall-high fences not only complement new homes, but add to its dimension while shutting off unpleasant views, offering shade and breaking the wind for an outdoor "living room."

Perimeter fencing, around the outside of your property, can actually make the lot look bigger. And, less solid designs avoid any suggestions of a "spite" fence between you and your neighbors.

Be sure to use only tempered hardboard panels for exterior fencing applications. Tempered hardboard has been specially treated at the factory to make it harder, thus, more resistant to changing hot summer and cold winter weather conditions. Painting the paneling is recommended, not only for the beauty it will give the fenced-in area, but because it will increase the longevity of the paneling.

Practical and Striking
Because hardboard will flex without cracking or splintering while preserving its tough surface and strength, fences of tempered hardboard can be woven readily into popular but out-of-the-ordinary basket-weave fencing. Either horizontal or vertical applications are practical and striking.

Any fence using large, solid panels—such as those used to separate a service yard from outdoor living areas—are economical in terms of labor and material when made with hardboard.

One smart design, for example, alternates big squares of hardboard on either side of the post structure.

On the House

When a heating or cooling system is installed in a new house, it is designed to answer the requirements of that particular house. The idea is to provide enough heat or cool air to take care of the comfort of a family living in a house that size.

If the equipment is inadequate, the amount of heat or air circulated through the house will be insufficient to meet the family's needs. If it is too large, maintenance costs will be excessive.

Proceeding, then, on the assumption that a heating or cooling system works properly when a house is built, what happens when the owner decides to expand? He finds, on many occasions, that the addition of more living space—whether it be a bedroom, a finished attic or a porch—creates a problem. Either the present system can not handle the extra load or he must provide additional heat or cooling.

One solution to the need for more heat is a space heater, which can use gas, oil, kerosene or electricity. This usually is the least expensive heating equipment to install, but not always the most economical to operate. Incidentally, a space heater should include provisions for safety controls or venting. It's wise to check your local building code before installing it.

Electric resistance baseboard units provide more uniform heating than space heaters. Where electric rates are low, the cost of operating is low. Where rates are high, the operating expense is high.

One type of separate heating system uses a small hot water boiler. A tiny pump is used to convey heated water from the boiler through finger-sized tubing to baseboard heating panels in the new room.

Still another way to handle the situation is by expanding the existing central heating system. This should be done without the advice of a reliable heating contractor, who can determine whether the heating plant is large enough for expansion purposes. It is said that a hydronics system often can be expanded without extensive alterations to the system or to the house itself.

For solving cooling problems, window-type air conditioners are very effective in a single room. If your present cooling system uses ducts to extend cooling throughout the house from a central cooling source, it may be possible to install a new duct from the main unit to the new room. An extension of the existing equipment is also possible where there is a chilled water unit coming from a central water chiller to convectors.

Because the squares are placed in a diamond pattern, there are just enough open spaces to add interest without loss of privacy. And one very different fence uses perforated hardboard panels to create a hanging garden for potted plants.

Whatever the purpose of your fence, the wide range of choice in hardboard panel types, designs and textures will allow you to create a fence tailored to your particular new home needs.

Decorate Your Outdoors

By VIVIAN BROWN

Some people lose decorating perspective when it comes to the outdoors, especially when summer furniture clearance sales are under way.

Many proponents of good design have criticized outdoor furniture, believing we should put more effort into furnishing our outdoors in a manner that complements our indoors.

People with ordinary backyards, fancy terraces or more elaborate patios should take into consideration the same things when choosing furniture:

Is it durable if it must be left out? If not, do we have a place to store it?

Will it flatter the place where it is to be used?

Twice blest is the person who need not worry about impressing anyone, and can choose what fits his individual requirements for comfort and appearance, regardless of price.

One needs a practiced eye to determine furniture that will most flatter his yard. Sale merchandise is not always the answer. But often if one is willing to wait, and has determined what best fits his needs, he may find attractive bargains.

Furniture should be considered just as much of an investment outdoors as indoors, no matter what the price. Furniture that can be moved to sunroom, enclosed porch, den or playroom in winter offers inducements for wise purchasers.

If one is choosing furniture for a brick or flagstone terrace, the heaviest wrought iron furniture can be used. This furniture is available in designs that are more beautiful than ever with chic, weatherproof cushions. If this furniture is to be used on a lawn, however, it may be too heavy and wear into the soil in lopsided fashion that does not provide comfort. Temperamental mowers of lawns are likely to rebel at having to move heavy lawn furniture.

Furniture that is too light offers disadvantages also, and it often takes a beating in storms. It presents danger on city apartment building terraces because it can blow from its terrace perch, and sail into a window pane or even blow to the street or another terrace.

Many stores sell inexpensive folding furniture made of pine which people like to weather outdoors, storing the pieces compactly in garage or cellar during winter. But often the hardness of this furniture is deceiving and one leaves it out during winter, only to find that nails have rusted and the wood has given way at various points.

Redwood is attractive and is a sturdy wood that mellows with age, suited particularly well to country living.

Inexpensive natural rattan furniture imported from the Orient is available each year. It stacks easily for storage and takes well to paint finishes. These pieces can be attractive on lawn, sun porch or on patio, used with colorful cushions.

Director style chairs are very durable, fold for storage and are popular in the country and at the shore. The long-lived chairs can be kept looking good by replacing seats and backs with canvas or sail cloth whenever necessary.

Modern style outdoor furniture is available in great quantity. Lots of it is unattractive and garish. There are some interesting and sensible pieces available however.

Those who like rockers can find old-fashioned comfort available in a streamlined look combining wood rockers and washable vinyl cord back and seat.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: I am going to remove the old finish from some furniture and then refinish it with gloss varnish. I have had considerable success in the past with removing old finishes, but I then used paint for the new coat. I understand that varnishing is a lot more difficult. Is there any advice you can give me?

ANSWER: Yes, varnishing requires more care than painting. The trick is to get the varnish to flow smoothly across the surface of the wood. Dip the brush only a third of its bristle length, lower it to the stock gently and draw it across in long, slow brush strokes. Raise the brush before you stop its movement.

In doing chairs and tables, turn them upside down and do the legs, stretchers, etc. Turn them rightside up and do the tops and outside surfaces last. Three coats will give a good result, sanding with a very fine grade of paper between each coat.

Dust is the big bugaboo when using varnish. Take every precaution to keep it off the wood before you start and off the varnish as you continue with the job. Avoid stirring up dust in the room where you are working, which means you should not do the varnishing where other persons are walking around. This dust problem is so vital to a successful job that some wood refinishers use a vacuum cleaner for cleaning the surface of the wood before they begin. They don't want to risk the chance that there will be some dust or lint on the cloth ordinarily used for this purpose.

Polly's Quiz

ONE WEEKEND OF WORK—
VOILA! PATIO PLEASURE

Outdoor living today requires more than a few odd chairs scattered about a plot of drying grass. Outdoor living today demands furniture that will defy the changing elements and still look smart and be comfortable.

Faced with one of the most discouraging of all outdoors scenes—a flat back yard that joined up with endless others just like it—one young couple decided to do something about it. Only one weekend of work and they acquired privacy as well as charm and comfort.

Their biggest job (and expense) was enclosing their little rear plot with a tall habitant fence. A 16-by-16 terrace was laid with bricks in sand. At each corner they used classic looking pedestal-porch columns cut down and painted an antiqued sea green. Each was topped with a wooden tub full of brilliant pink geraniums, white petunias and trailing ivy.

Dull looking chairs were all spruced up with sea green paint. Broad black-and-white striped canvas seat and back pads for the chairs and some black iron tables really set things off.

The owners really had something to show for a weekend of exercise in the sun and air.

Dear Polly: I need some suggestions on color for walls, drapes and rug in my new living room and dining room. I have a brown-and-beige tweed sectional, one white Danish chair and one orange Danish chair. End walls of living room will be paneled. A slate foyer enters the living room. I thought of eggshell white walls, a medium brown carpet and bold print curtains in orange, yellow and brown. Could you write changes or suggestions?—Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. X.: Be careful of a too-brown-and-tan look. Walls in the foyer could be olive green, as well as the carpet in both living room and dining room. Broad stripes in olive, orange, white and brown would be smarter than print curtains.

Dear Polly: I am recaning the Home Conditioning Units Take New Size, Shape

Size, shape, and appearance of furnaces and year-around air conditioning systems have undergone revolutionary changes in recent years to keep pace with trends in modern home building and remodeling.

The emphasis now is on space-saving, compact design and central heating and cooling units often require less space today than a refrigerator.

Gas furnaces recently introduced by a furnace company, for instance, are less than 5 feet high and less than 27 inches wide, yet they'll provide seats of six antique chairs. I painted them black enamel and now want to redo them in a black satin finish before recaning. Should I use another underbase. I know it would be a job to remove all this paint. A Reader.

Dear Reader: You are right. A satin finish will be far prettier on your chairs. Sand them thoroughly, first with coarse sandpaper to break through the shiny finish. Then make them smooth as glass with finer paper. Do not paint the cane seats. Cover them with tie-on pads that contribute something to the rooms color scheme.

Furnaces and air-conditioning units also have taken on new shapes and appearances. Nowadays, they have the square-cornered look so popular in home furnishings and appliances. Cabinets are handsomely finished in single-unit designs which fit into any home plan.

Walnut Man New Bureau Assessor

WALNUT — The Bureau County Board of Supervisors appointed Oren J. Pomeroy Jr., Walnut farmer, as supervisor of assessments at their meeting this week in the courthouse in Princeton.

Pomeroy will fill the vacancy created by the death of Jim Barger, who was killed in an auto accident, near his hometown of LaMoille several weeks ago.

As the result of a written examination, the three top scoring candidates were presented to the Board. In addition to Pomeroy, they were James Boone, Wyanet, and Duane Armstrong, Princeton. Armstrong had the highest grade on the written test (77.6) and Boone second highest (75.3) with Pomeroy third at (75.3).

The decision of the board was settled by secret ballot, with the result, Boone receiving 11 on the first ballot, Armstrong five and Pomeroy 10. The second ballot was then taken between the two high men of the first ballot with the result that Boone received nine votes and Pomeroy 16. One member still voted for Armstrong.

Harry Fiste, Berlin township chairman of the delinquent tax, reported to the Board that 31 men had picked up applications and of these, 27 were returned. Twenty five men took the exam, 15 were interviewed and the field was finally narrowed to six applicants. Of these, the three men who appeared at the meeting were selected for recommendation.

Pomeroy, the new supervisor of assessments, will begin his duties Monday at a salary of $6,600 per year. He is 46 years of age and operates a farm east of Walnut. He is married to the former Geraldine Snyder, Princeton, and they have four children, Dana 15, Oren III, 10, Rhonda, 8 and Deborah 4.

Pomeroy indicated that he is planning to move from the farm into the town of Walnut in the near future.

Detective Mag Fights Court Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Two detective story magazines have asked the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reverse its ruling that refashioning of news stories for profit constitutes an invasion of privacy.

The court's ruling was termed a grievous and harmful infringement of freedom of the press by lawyers for "Startling Detective" and "True Detective" magazines.

The asked the court Friday to revoke its order for a U.S. District Court trial of a suit by Mrs. Mildred Wagner of Chicago. She seeks $150,000 from each magazine for damages she alleged she suffered through publication of articles about the slaying of her daughter, Mary Lou, in November, 1957.

A U.S. District Court judge had ruled that as a libel suit it was barred by the statute of limitations. The Court of Appeals in June reversed that decision and said the case should go to trial as one on the ground of invasion of privacy.

One of the magazines' arguments in their petition was that under the court's ruling such stories as that of gangster John Dillinger could not be presented by any communications media.

Case to Test Drug Addict Statute

CHICAGO (AP) — The legality of an Illinois law making drug addiction a crime will be tested by an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Asst. State's Atty. Marvin E. Aspen said Friday he will appeal a ruling by Municipal Court Judge Francis T. Moran that drug addiction is not a criminal offense. Judge Moran, in dismissing charges against an alleged drug addict, said his ruling followed a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision.

The U.S. high court has declared unconstitutional a California statute which made addiction a criminal offense. Judge Moran said that the California law was substantially the same as the one now in force in Illinois.

The Illinois law carries penalties of 90 days to one year in jail, or five years probation with the first three months in jail for conviction of drug addiction.

Amboy FFA Meet Tuesday

Association Opposed to Session

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. — The Central Illinois Mayor's Association has declared itself opposed to any motion of a special legislative session to transfer cities' share of the motor vehicle tax fund to other uses.

The city officials from Champaign, Rantoul, Urbana, Quincy, Danville, Peoria and Jacksonville, Friday passed a resolution proposed by Mayor Lester E. Collins of Springfield stating their objection to such a proposal.

Steve Seargent, a representative of the Illinois Municipal League, told the group $19 million in motor vehicle tax funds was transferred into the general fund during the last session of the General Assembly.

He said the funds probably won't be returned as promised, considering the present financial condition of the state.

Seargent said remarks made at Gov. Otto Kerner's Thursday press conference seemed to indicate a request to transfer motor vehicle tax funds might be made at the special session of the General Assembly which is slated for sometime in mid-November.

The mayors' association is comprised of officials from central Illinois cities with populations greater than 20,000.

Harmon Girl 'Good' in KSB Hospital

Lois Shoemaker, 2, Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Shoemaker Jr., is today in good condition at KSB Hospital, suffering from an undetermined illness.

She was taken to the hospital late Friday by her parents.

The parents were met at the city limits and escorted to the hospital by Dixon police.

The Twist Invades Buckingham

WOODSTOCK, England (AP) — Ancient Blenheim Palace, birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill, jumped to the twist today. Princess Margaret led the beat at a gay coming out party for a pretty American debutante.

The honking rhythm echoed until near dawn through the 10th Duke of Marlborough's stately 303-room hall as 1,100 guests gyrated between gulps of lobster and champagne.

The glittering ball, attended by the cream of British and American society, served a double purpose.

The 64-year-old Duke gave it as a coming out party for his half-American granddaughter, Serena Russell, 18, of Berwyn, Pa.

It also marked the 22nd birthday of his son, Lord Charles George William Colin Spencer-Churchill, a junior at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

Princess Margaret, her hair an orange tinge and set in a new style, did a sprightly but not violent twist, spectators said.

Thus she became the second member of Britain's royal family to be spotted doing the twist in public. The Duke of Edinburgh performed the dance at a ball given this spring by Queen Juliana of the Netherlands.

Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, who are weekendending at the nearby home of the Marquis and Marchioness of Blandford, arrived late for the party.

The American guest of honor, Miss Russell, also was born in the 340-year-old palace. She wore a close-fitting strapless gown of white cake lace, which flared from her trim hips to a full hemline.

Rockford Driver Hospitalized After Crash

OREGON — Delbert Thompson, 32, Rockford, is reported in fairly good condition today at Swedish American Hospital, Rockford after he was injured in an accident early Friday morning three miles north of Oregon on Rt. 2.

Hospital officials said the extent of his injuries will not be determined until X-rays are taken today.

Police said Thompson was northbound when his vehicle ran off the road ploughed along the roadside for about 700 ft. and hit a tree.

State police are holding the case under investigation. They estimated damages at $1,600.

Tanks Seen Opposite Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin police said three East German tanks moved up today near the Red wall dividing Berlin but with drew after three hours. There was no explanation. Police said they knew of no incident in the vicinity. The tanks were seen opposite the American sector borough of Kreuzberg, in the Koenigsdamm, a boulevard cut by the wall.

National Guard Pays Tribute

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP) — The Illinois National Guard paid tribute Friday night to 1st Sgt. Vaal G. Dudenbostel, a Purple Heart veteran of World War II and Korea. Sgt. Dudenbostel, 39, of West Frankfort, died Monday of a heart attack.

More than 600 men of the 1st battle group of the 130th infantry regiment attended a memorial service for the sergeant.

Russians Never Make Mistakes??

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. officials are chortling over a king-sized Soviet goof which saw Russian workers spend a year painstakingly making an expensive machine part—which other workers then cut into scrap.

The blunder, by the Russians' own admission, wasted thousands of rubles.

The report, which slipped into the carefully controlled Russian press, first went unnoticed in the West. But then it was spotted by American experts who sift all available material for between-the-lines hints of conditions inside the Soviet Union.

The report was circulated among high-level U.S. authorities as part of a collection of such intelligence material.

As one source put it, the report published in Komsomolskaya Pravda shows "they also have their troubles"—although the Russians usually try to tell the world that things are going just great for them.

The Russians publication told of the building of a large cylinder for one of the most powerful hydraulic presses in the Soviet Union.

This cylinder, weighing many tons, was sent to the Novosibirsk turbo-generator plant in Siberia for precision work that took almost a year.

The next step was to ship the vital part back to a heavy press plant, presumably for assembly into what was believed to be a 30,000-ton forging press.

Instead of shipping the huge cylinder to the fabricating plant, somebody goofed and sent it to a warehouse—where it was cut up for scrap.

of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd, replaced by Colonial Office Chief Reginald Maudling, and Defense Secretary Harold Watkinson, succeeded by Aviation Minister Peter Thornycroft.

Also fired were Viscount Kilmuir, 62, lord chancellor; Lord Mills, 72, minister without portfolio; Sir David Eccles, 68, education minister; Dr. Charles Hill, 58, housing minister and John MacLay, 56, secretary of state for Scotland.

Lord Home remains as foreign secretary, and no changes in Britain's foreign policy and its close association with the United States were expected.

Macmillan's concern with the economic situation was emphasized by his shift of Treasury Chief Secretary Henry Brooke into the home secretary's post and Treasury Financial Secretary Sir Edward Boyle to the Education Ministry.

Lloyd was most closely associated with the government's unpopular credit curbs and hold-down on wages, generally conceded as the cause of the Conservatives' recent political setbacks.

fail to lose sight of the grave and heavy responsibility which we assume before the nation and our people so punished by suffering," he said.

Brochado da Rocha is taking over the administration of a country plagued by ever increasing inflation, growing discontent over the lack of effective land reform and an unmanageable tax system.

The new prime minister said he will seek "short term solutions" to the problem of inflation and the resultant food shortages caused by merchants holding back ample supplies of such staples as beans, rice, sugar and salt in an effort to break government efforts to control their prices. The shortages sparked rioting during the past two weeks that left at least a dozen persons dead and 1,000 injured.

Brochado da Rocha's concentration on short term measures is in keeping with his probable term in office. Congressional elections will be held in the fall and a new government most likely will be formed then.

June Vows in Chicago Church For Miss Ross and J. F. Smith

OREGON — Miss Gloria Ross, daughter of Paul E. Ross, Chicago, was escorted by her father to the altar of the Foster Park Baptist Church in Chicago, for her June 15 wedding to Jack F. Smith, son of Mrs. Frances Smith, Oregon. Officiating clergyman for the evening double-ring ceremony was the Rev. W. E. Borne, minister of the church.

Twin arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and four candelabras holding white tapers decorated the altar, and nuptial selections sung by Miss Sharon Jochum, Chicago, included "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Lace Bridal Gown
With her floor length gown of white embroidered lace, the bride carried a cascading bouquet of white chrysanthemums and red rosebuds. Long tapered sleeves came to points at her wrists, and the gown's scooped neckline was edged with lace scallops. A headpiece of matching lace held her waist length veil of imported illusion.

Mrs. Jerome Reussow, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a ballerina dress of powder blue chiffon and her bouquet of white carnations was accented by streamers of white satin. Miss Sue Ross, also the bride's sister, and Miss Marge Weritz, both of Chicago, carried arrangements of pink and white carnations with their ballerina dresses of pastel pink chiffon.

Mr. Smith's best man was Charles McCourt, Oregon, and acting as groomsmen were Richard Telkamp and James Ross. Ushering was in charge of Jerome Reussow and Lloyd Hausknecht.

For the ceremony the bridegroom's mother wore a floral white and blue sheer dress and a corsage of white carnations.

Music for the reception held in the parlors of the church following the ceremony, was provided by Miss Charlotte Souder, pianist. Wedding and reception guests were registered and served punch, coffee, and wedding cake by friends of the newlyweds.

To Wisconsin
The June bride was wearing a white sheer dress with matching accessories when the couple departed for a week's honeymoon at Lake Mary, Wis. She is a 1957 graduate of Calumet High School, Chicago, and graduated with a degree in music education from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, in June.

Mr. Smith, a graduate of Oregon Community High School, has served four years in the Army, and will begin his senior year at Northern Illinois University in September where he is majoring in business education.

The newlyweds are spending the remainder of the summer in Seattle, Wash., and will return to Oregon in September when Mrs. Smith will assume her duties as an instructor of music in the Oregon Elementary School.

Choral Group Is Organized In Dixon Area

Plans are underway for a Dixon area music theater chorus to be called "The Broadway in Miniature Company," with Richard Kroeger, Sterling, professional singer and experienced choral director, as musical director.

The group will rehearse entire Broadway musical scores to be presented publicly in concert form. Music will be augmented by area musicians and dancers, and special lighting effects and staging will be featured.

Tentative plans include weekly rehearsals in Dixon on Monday evenings, and a later announcement will list the location of the rehearsals. Kurt Weil's "Down in the Valley," or Lerner and Loewe's "Brigadoon" are being considered as early productions. "Paint Your Wagon" and "Camelot" are also included on the list of possible presentations.

Vocalists of all classifications will be needed and experience will not be a necessary requirement for acceptance. Area persons interested in becoming members of the new choral group are asked to contact Brian Foster, business manager, 282-6673, or they may write Mr. Foster, P.O. Box 53, Dixon, to request information brochures and application forms.

EDITOR'S NOTE
In order to be published in the Social Calendar for the day, club notices must be received at the Society desk by 9:20 a.m. The deadline for Saturday's edition of the calendar is Friday at 2 p.m.

Designers Will Use Fur In Fashion's New Look

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The most fashionable look next winter will be a pink nose emerging from the warm depths of a capacious fur hat and muffling fur collar.

Designers are bundling up women against cold weather as if they fear a penicillin shortage with the first snowfall, and their solicitude, after years of pneumonia-baiting is welcome.

200 Writers
About 200 of the nation's fashion writers witnessed this change of heart this week at New York Couture Group showings. The afternoon parade of fall and winter clothes from the houses of Harry Frechtel, Edward Abbott and Harvey Berin reflected this newly awakened concern for protecting feminine frailty.

The unspoken question is: Could it be that President Kennedy, with his program for health and physical

Auxiliary Members Have Program by Miss Forristall

Miss Deborah Forristall, who attended the recent 1962 Illini Girls State in Jacksonville as representative of the Dixon American Legion Auxiliary, described her experiences at the annual event for the auxiliary members when they met Wednesday evening in the Legion Hall. She and her mother, Mrs. Delbert Forristall, who attended the meeting as a guest, were introduced by Mrs. Earl James, Girls State chairman.

During a business session, plans were completed for a forthcoming rummage sale, and members having articles to donate for the sale were asked to contact Mrs. Clyde Cooley, chairman.

Mrs. James also served refreshments during a social hour following Miss Forristall's program.

Posture Reflects Mental Attitude

Do you think of posture only in the physical sense? You know that when you don't stand up straight, you add inches to your waist and that when you don't hold in your stomach, your "profile" leaves much to be desired.

But have you given thought to the fact that your posture also reflects your mental attitude? How you walk, stand or sit tell clearly what you think of yourself. If you stand in a slouch, you look insignificant. If you sit in a slump, you look as though you were trying to hide. And if you clump along instead of walking, you're judged a clod.

So pull yourself up! Remember that your friends' opinion of you is simply a reflection of your own opinion of yourself. It's up to you to make it a good one.

Grange Members Submit Entries In Essay Contest

Miss Norma Tourtellot and Miss Laura Peterson, members of Rock River Grange, entered the 34th annual Highway Essay Contest for young Grange members by submitting entries at a recent Grange meeting on the 1962 contest topic, "With Safe Driving—Highways Can Be Happy Ways."

Miss Ann Bastian, a senior at Illinois State Normal University, Normal, acted as judge and selected Miss Tourtellot's essay as the winning entry.

The contest is an annual Grange project open to members under 18, and awards are provided by the Automotive Safety Foundation. As a subordinate winner, Miss Tourtellot will receive a special award pin, and her essay will be entered before Aug. 1 in the state contest. The annual state winner is awarded a check, and the six regional winners will receive $100 United States Savings Bonds. Winner of the national contest will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National Grange Convention to be held Nov. 14-17 in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Holt-Call Nuptials Are Held in Rochelle Church

ROCHELLE—Miss Reatha Jane Holt and Ralph Dean Call repeated marriage vows before an altar trimmed with basket arrangements of white gladioli in the Church of God, Rochelle, on June 9. The afternoon double-ring wedding was performed by the Rev. James Bowers, pastor of the church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Holt and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Call, Rochelle.

Chantilly lace, tulle and mist taffeta fashioned the bride's white wedding gown. A scalloped neckline, and long fitted sleeves were features of the basque bodice, and the bouffant floor length skirt was styled with a full chapel train. A pearl crown held her three-tiered veil of silk illusion, and a white orchid centered her bouquet of stephanotis.

Ushering guests at the ceremony were Donald Williams and Donald Gates, and groomsmen were Danny Holt and Larry McGee, all of Rochelle. Mr. Holt presented his daughter in marriage, and acting as the bridegroom's best man was Harles Holt, Rochelle.

The bride's maid of honor was Miss Janet McIlvoy, and bridesmaids were Miss Violet Tyler and Miss Linda Richardson, all of Rochelle. They carried cross-shaped arrangements of pink carnations with their identical dresses of lavender nylon styled with short lace jackets, and lavender crowns held their matching short veils. Flower girl for the wedding was Miss Michelle Moore and James Holt acted as ringbearer.

Nuptial music was offered by Clyde Golden, organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Wayne Holt, soloist. Both musicians reside in Rochelle.

Wedding guests from Rochelle, Ashton, DeKalb, Dixon, Esmond, Flagg Center, Kings, Malta, Rockford, and from Wynne, Ark., attended a reception honoring the newlyweds in the parlors of the church following the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Call are living in Rochelle where she is an employee of the Dusenberry Bakery and he is employed by Swift and Company.

Select Bright Costumes for A Rainy Day

There's no point in adding to the dreariness of a rainy day by wearing a combination of old clothes. The teen-ager who wears any old thing on wet days is missing a chance to lift her own spirits and collect a few compliments, too.

A gay raincoat, matching umbrella and colorful boots will protect any clothes you choose to wear.

Decide ahead of time on a rainy day hairdo for yourself. If your hair is slightly wavy, a neat page boy will survive the weather. If your locks are straight, try wearing it in a smooth and shiny style.

Whatever you do, don't use the rain as an excuse to look sloppy.

Meade, Harrison Wedding To Be In September

MISS MARY ANN MEADE

Mr. and Mrs. George Meade, Amboy, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Meade, to Gerald A. Harrison, son of Mrs. Cecil Harrison, Amboy, and the late Mr. Harrison.

Miss Meade, a 1960 graduate of Amboy High School, is currently employed by Midwest Rug Mills in Amboy, and her fiancé, a 1959 graduate of the Amboy school, is serving in the Army. He will enroll in Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, following his discharge from service.

An early September wedding in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Amboy, is being planned.

Rhoads Family Reunion Is Held in Amboy

A reunion of the Rhoads family held Sunday in the Amboy City Park, honored Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reydett, Logansport, Ind.

Other family members attending the reunion which began with a noon picnic dinner were: Mrs. Katherine Rhoads, Compton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Riley, Lee Center; Mr. and Mrs. George Rhoads and Bobby, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rhoads, Steward; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rhoads and Carolyn, Paw Paw; Mr. and Mrs. Lucian B. Rees, Scarboro; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bulles, Hebron; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sondegroth, Connie and Robbie, Ladd; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Riley and family, Princeton; Miss Susan Riley, Davenport, Iowa, and Mrs. Maude Mason, Dixon.

Talked About

(From the files of The Dixon Evening Telegraph)

10 YEARS AGO
More than 1,000 persons attended the two nights of the pageant, "Panarama of a Century," presented in Ashton last week, it was announced today by Mrs. Stanwood Griffith, ticket sales chairman. Tabulation of money received, which will be used to buy uniforms for the high school band, has not been completed as yet.

Robert Nedrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Nedrow, Feamcom AFB, Tokyo, Japan, has been promoted to rank of Sergeant.

Dick Arndt, off to a fast start with an even-par 34, took medalist honors in Lincoln Highway qualifying play at Plum Hollow Sunday. He outshot his nearest rival, Frank Daschbach, jr., by eight strokes. The Plum Hollow team is composed of Arndt, Daschbach, Ken Wahler, Hugh Hough, John Ginger and Fred Reis.

Mary Lois Raymond will entertain Saturday with a breakfast at the country club in honor of Miss Lucille Hofmann, bride elect.

Mrs. Gordon S. McDonald entertained with a nine o'clock breakfast Monday for Miss Lucille Hofmann. Mrs. Lloyd Eifline received the high score at bridge, and Miss Adeline Eresman, the low score. Miss Hofmann was presented with some very lovely crystal goblets.

A large crowd was in Franklin Grove Saturday night for the band concert, which was one of the best of the season. The band concert and picture show every Wednesday night have been drawing large crowds to town and will continue to do so. One thing you can always depend on,

Franklin Grove will give you just what they advertise.

About thirty friends of Miss Harrington enjoyed a picnic on her lawn at her home in Grand Detour on the Fourth. A delicious dinner was served at noon. Later in the afternoon Miss Harrington served ice cream and cake. All spent a pleasant day.

Joe Enichen, Grand Detour, is having another big shed built. George Remmers is doing the work.

John Hemmen and family of Waukegan spent a few days in Grand Detour last week with his brother Frank at the old homestead.

See the Tindoco Utility Boxes at O. H. Brown & Co. Tindoco utility boxes are artistic and attractive and unique in their treatment of color and composition. The clever housewife is using them for containers for fruit, candy, nuts, cakes, sewing and embroidery, knitting, flower boxes, children's banks, etc. They are quite the vogue at afternoon teas, embroidery and sewing classes and for motoring and travelling. Dad knows they are nifty as humidors for cigars and cigarettes, and as for collars, could anything be more practical than a large round box placed on the top of his chiffoyer? A surprise for party prizes and favors. As a lunch box for school the kiddies shout "Yes." Youngsters use them as playthings.

Boxes of all descriptions—round, oval, square and oblong, from 4 ounce to 5 pounds. Prices range from 10 cents to 65 cents, yet they are sufficiently attractive for the most critical of drawing room matrons. In the dressing room, "Milady" uses them, small size for powder.

Presbyterian Pastor
Espouses "Christian
Agnosticist" Belief

By JACK C. LANDAU
NEW YORK (AP)—A young Presbyterian minister, who calls his belief "Christian Agnosticism" is using plays and abstract paintings in his work.

The Rev. William B. Glenesk of the Spencer Memorial Church in Brooklyn says "I am sure that God exists but I can't prove it—that's the agnostic element."

"To believe in God's existence is a matter of faith, but within the framework of this faith, there is this doubt as to the whereabouts of God," he added.

In an effort to re-affirm his own faith and that of his parishioners and in an attempt to discover more about God's manifestations in the world, Rev. Glenesk believes in experimentation.

"It is an exploratory type of faith; faith grows with exposure. This is an old Greek idea, that is, to begin with things you don't know," he adds.

Because the Rev. Mr. Glenesk does not subscribe to a division between secular and religious activities but believes that everything is under God, he feels free to draw upon the greatest works of art and literature.

He has discussed modern and classic plays, the dance, and art in his sermons as examples of God's spirit at work.

"Hamlet" was used to explore the problems of personal freedom and pride; "King Lear," self discovery; "Death of a Salesman," self deception; "The Tenth Man," supernatural elements in the universe; and "Gideon," war between men.

After the sermons, there are seminars which at times include the Broadway actors who played leading parts. One of Glenesk's reasons for using literature is that "God speaks as strongly through the great poets and artists of today as through the prophets of yesterday."

He reports that his congregation, which numbers about 200 persons, has shown great interest in his new approach and that about 100 attend the Sunday services, of which an average 50 stay on for the seminars.

His views first became widely known last June 30 when he appeared on an early morning radio program and espoused "Christian agnosticism." Since then, he says, he has received about 100 calls, most of them favorable, but some bitterly critical.

Toughy's Son Sentenced

CHICAGO (AP)—Roger Scott Touhy, 38-year-old son of prohibition era gangster Roger Touhy, has been ordered to prison to serve a 1-10 year term for armed robbery.

Judge Harold P. O'Connell of Criminal Court ordered Touhy sent to prison Friday after Touhy said he was unable to raise $15,000 bond for his freedom pending appeal of his conviction.

Touhy was convicted of robbing a South Side grocery Jan. 26 with two unidentified confederates. Touhy has denied any part in the $3,084 holdup.

Dear Ann:

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Our apartment is right next to the laundry room. There is a rule that no tenant may wash after 9 p.m. or before 8 p.m. A sign to this effect is posted in the hall, but apparently the people in the building can't read.

I am sick and tired of being blasted out of bed at 6 in the morning by the sound of washing machines and dryers. As if this isn't bad enough, some of the tenants who work during the day do their laundry at midnight. One woman likes to was at 2 a.m. She has insomnia and can't sleep so she doesn't want anyone else to sleep either.

I've complained to the landlord a dozen times but he doesn't live in the building. He says he can't hire a policeman to watch the laundry room. Don't tell me to move. I like my apartment and it's ideally located for my family. Please tell me what to do. — OUT OF STARCH

Dear Out of Starch: One of the oldest inventions known to civilized man is the lock and key. I suggest you look into it.

Tell your landlord you will be happy to lock up the laundry room at 9 p.m. and unlock it at 8 a.m. Since it is next to your apartment, this should be a simple matter.

When you are away on vacation or out for the evening you could leave the room open and let the people wash at whatever crazy hour suits them.

Dear Ann: I'm married and I have four children. My problem is my husband. I've tried everything I know of to please him but he's never satisfied.

He wants me to play the violin, the flute, sing in the church choir, teach Bible school, keep the house spotless, wash, iron and cook, take care of the lawn, feed the cat, dog and bird, and entertain his relatives every Sunday. Last night he said I should take a full-time job because we could use the money.

I had pneumonia five months ago and never did get my strength back. The doctor says I'm trying to do too much. When I ask Oswald to give me a hand he sits there and reads the paper. He claims it's a woman's job to take care of the home and kids and that he doesn't ask me to come down to the plant and help him with HIS work. What can I say to a man like this?—WORN OUT

Dear Worn Out: You can tell Oswald that unless he gives you a hand he may have to hire a full time housekeeper while you are in a hospital recovering from nervous exhaustion. Then he'll have to help her with the housework, feed the cat, dog and bird, and entertain his relatives every Sunday, in addition to his full-time job.

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle an argument which has been going on for several days between my husband and me.

We had a baby boy last month. My husband is the father of another boy by a previous marriage. What I want to know is am I related to this other child?

My brother seems to think that I am not related to the first son. I think I am, but I don't know quite how. My brother says if I am related to that other child, then my husband's ex-wife is related to our child.

Please settle this argument once and for all. I am sick and tired of the bickering already.—PRETZEL-EATER

Dear Pretzleater: You are not related to your husband's son by his previous marriage unless you legally adopt the boy. The same goes for your husband's ex-wife and your month-old son.

Now you can all stop fighting! (Copyright 1962, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

LA Expands Lead to 1½ Games; Sox Win

Yankees Hold Slim AL Lead

By The Associated Press
The American League spotlight focused today on three rings.

In the main arena were the top three pennant contenders — New York's world champion Yankees, Cleveland's runner-up Indians and Los Angeles' surprising Angels — separated by only .008 points.

Arrayed on either side were Charley Lau and Lu Clinton, two unlikely candidates who came up with outstanding individual performances Friday night while the men in the middle were battling for first place.

The third-place Angels knocked off the league-leading Yankees for the second night in a row, moving within .008 of first place with a 5-2 victory. The Indians, beaten by Baltimore 10 to 3, remained second, .003 behind.

Lau, the Orioles' reserve catcher, tied a major league record by slamming four doubles. Clinton, often a Boston benchwarmer, became the first American League batter since 1960 to hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and homer—before his second single knocked in the winning run in an 11-10, 15-inning marathon with Kansas City.

Top Pitching
Standout pitching shows were put on at Minnesota, where the Twins' Camilo Pascual became the top winner in the league with 13 triumphs by blanking Washington 4-0 on four hits, and at Chicago, where White Sox hurler Ray Herbert stopped Detroit 4-1 with a 3-hitter.

Leon Wagner's 26th homer — tops in the majors — and Lee Thomas' 2-run single in the third inning that drove in the decisive runs were the key blows for the Angels against Ralph Terry (11-8) and the Yankees. Ken McBride (9-3) went the distance for the victory, scattering 12 hits and running his winning streak to eight since he last lost in April.

Doubles Home Run
Lau doubled home the Orioles' first run and the second and started a 3-run rally in the fourth against the Indians. The homer hitters then took over, with John Powell hitting a 2-run homer in the seventh and Brooks Robinson tagging a 3-run shot in the eighth. The 13-hit attack gave Steve Barber (7-6) his first victory since being released from the army, although he needed relief help from Hal Brown over the final 2½ innings. Jim Perry (7-7) lost it.

Clinton, hitting .556 with 30-for-54 in the last 13 games, won it for the Red Sox in the 15th with an infield single. Carl Yastrzemski, who had doubled, raced around to score with the clincher that gave the triumph to Dick Radatz (4-4) and tagged Ed Rakow (6-10) with the defeat. Norm Siebern and Ed Charles homered for the A's.

Pascual (13-5) struck out 10 while going the route for the 12th time and recording his fourth shutout. Tom Cheney (2-4) started for the Senators and was touched for a run in the first on Harmon Killebrew's sacrifice fly. Cheney allowed only two hits before Marty Kutyna took over in the eighth, served a 2-run homer to Harmon Killebrew.

TO CORRECT A SLICE—John Aguilon, club pro at Plum Hollow Country Club, demonstrates some of golfing fundamentals for participants in the Junior Golf Tournament at Plum Hollow this week. Over forty—17 and under—youths are participating in the tournament scheduled to conclude today. Gary Robinson of Sterling leads the championship flight with 36-hole total of 153. Pat Lessner is on top in the B Flight with a 167, Greg Selgestad leads the C Flight with a 171 total and Dave White tops the D Flight with a 196.

Griffith Decisions Dupas in 15 Rounds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—It was up to boxer Emile Griffith to whip a man and a memory and he did it.

So today 23-year-old Emile was still the welterweight champion of the world.

The man he whipped was Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, the No. 1 contender. The decision Friday night was unanimous, but Dupas was a lot tougher and more aggressive than most people expected.

The memory, a sad one for Griffith, was his fatal fight last March 24 with Benny (Kid) Paret. The Cuban was battered into submission in 12 rounds and died 10 days later.

There was speculation that the sensitive, almost childlike Griffith, with this tragedy preying on his mind, might hold back his heavy punching or might even put on a dispirited fight.

One thing was sure. The 26-year-old Dupas, known for his hit-and-run tactics, switched form and kept Griffith fully occupied for the full 15 rounds.

The crowd of 5,169 in the Las Vegas Convention Center was in an uproar of excitement for the full 45 minutes of the action.

There was much clinching, and referee Frankie Van was a busy man. But Dupas with his surprising in and out punching, and the ever present threat of a knockout by Griffith, made it a good fight.

The fans really had to wait until the 15th round for the highlight. Griffith connected with a hard right to the jaw that hurt Ralph. He followed it up with lefts and rights as Dupas wobbled back, slipping eventually out of knockout range.

Emile was never able to land the finishing blow.

"I wasn't out but I knew I was hit," Dupas said later.

Dupas was very much in the fight and even close to the title until the last five rounds. He slugged toe-to-toe with Griffith but could never really hurt him. Then Emile came on strong in the closing rounds to wrap it up.

Dupas thought he won the fight, but there was no complaint from his manager, Angelo Dundee. The latter was just pleased with Dupas' showing.

"I feel I boxed a very good fighter," Griffith said.

He related that recently a friend from New Orleans telephoned and warned that Dupas would try to win with a 10-second flurry of punching in each round.

"It came true just as he said," Griffith observed.

Dupas did seem to land his best shots right at the bell, notably in the fourth, sixth and eighth rounds.

Griffith spoke only briefly about the Paret matter, a subject he has studiously avoided during the past two weeks.

"Yes, I think about it. Even while training in the gym it comes to me, but . . ."

He dropped the subject there. Dupas noted that Griffith was the only one marked up in the fight. The champion had a slight cut at the right eye and in the middle of the forehead. Neither was serious, and the Griffith faction claimed both were inflicted by butts.

Griffith's managers, Gil Clancy and Howard Albert, said they have no immediate plans, and will fight any one in the world if the money guarantee is right.

Crampton Holds 11-Stroke Lead

DETROIT (AP)—Clean living and durability are Bruce Crampton's aids to sizzling golf in the Motor City Open.

But a little bit of luck on Friday the 13th was another ally for the curly-haired Australian.

Crampton had an 11-under-par 131 entering today's third round of the $35,000 event. He led Dave Ragan by a stroke and Bill Casper and Don Massengale by two in a tournament notable for its low, par-wrecking scores.

Forty-two players had subpar totals at the 36-hole halfway mark Friday at par 36-35-71 Knollwood Country Club. For the second straight day 40 pros had below-par rounds, uproar of excitement for the full 45 minutes of the action.

Crampton Holds 11-Stroke Lead

DETROIT (AP)—Clean living and durability are Bruce Crampton's aids to sizzling golf in the Motor City Open.

But a little bit of luck on Friday the 13th was another ally for the curly-haired Australian.

Crampton had an 11-under-par 131 entering today's third round of the $35,000 event. He led Dave Ragan by a stroke and Bill Casper and Don Massengale by two in a tournament notable for its low, par-wrecking scores.

Forty-two players had subpar totals at the 36-hole halfway mark Friday at par 36-35-71 Knollwood Country Club. For the second straight day 40 pros had below-par rounds, uproar of excitement for the full 45 minutes of the action.

There was much clinching, and referee Frankie Van was a busy man. But Dupas with his surprising in and out punching, and the ever present threat of a knockout by Griffith, made it a good fight.

The fans really had to wait until the 15th round for the highlight. Griffith connected with a hard right to the jaw that hurt Ralph. He followed it up with lefts and rights as Dupas wobbled back, slipping eventually out of knockout range.

Emile was never able to land the finishing blow.

"I wasn't out but I knew I was hit," Dupas said later.

Dupas was very much in the fight and even close to the title until the last five rounds. He slugged toe-to-toe with Griffith but could never really hurt him. Then Emile came on strong in the closing rounds to wrap it up.

Dupas thought he won the fight, but there was no complaint from his manager, Angelo Dundee. The latter was just pleased with Dupas' showing.

"I feel I boxed a very good fighter," Griffith said.

He related that recently a friend from New Orleans telephoned and warned that Dupas would try to win with a 10-second flurry of punching in each round.

"It came true just as he said," Griffith observed.

Dupas did seem to land his best shots right at the bell, notably in the fourth, sixth and eighth rounds.

Griffith spoke only briefly about the Paret matter, a subject he has studiously avoided during the past two weeks.

"Yes, I think about it. Even while training in the gym it comes to me, but . . ."

He dropped the subject there. Dupas noted that Griffith was the only one marked up in the fight. The champion had a slight cut at the right eye and in the middle of the forehead. Neither was serious, and the Griffith faction claimed both were inflicted by butts.

Griffith's managers, Gil Clancy and Howard Albert, said they have no immediate plans, and will fight any one in the world if the money guarantee is right.

Associated Press News in Pictures

BRIEF ON VISITORS — Crewmen of the carrier USS Enterprise line flight deck to receive instructions about welcoming visitors for tour of the vessel in outer Boston harbor. The nuclear-powered craft was too big to be berthed near the shore.

ALL IN FUN — Marine Sgt. Sam Griffith appears to be lifting a helicopter at naval base near Tokyo. Actually, craft hovered over his head when he struck pose.

JUST PASSING OVER — At first glance it would appear as though this house had found a new location atop a railroad bridge. Actually, it was being moved to a new site by way of the overpass near Omaha, Neb., when this picture was taken.

BARRED VIEW — Home plate umpire John Stevens looks at ball imbedded in his mask bars after it was fouled by Mickey Mantle during game in New York.

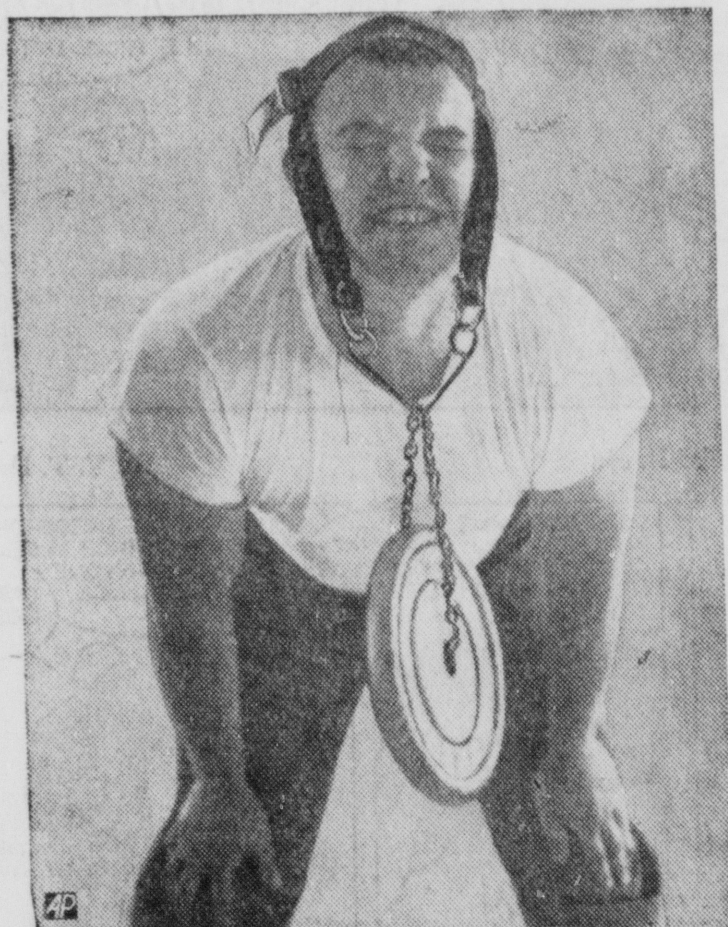

PATH OF FRAGRANCE — Townspeople prepare a floral "painting" on main street of Genzano, a small town south of Rome, Italy. Each year the long street is transformed, after two hours of work and four tons of petals, into a huge flower carpet.

TENDER CARE — Mrs. Okkerse, wife of a Rotterdam, Holland, zoo official, uses milk bottle to feed a baby kangaroo, orphaned when its mother died in an accident.

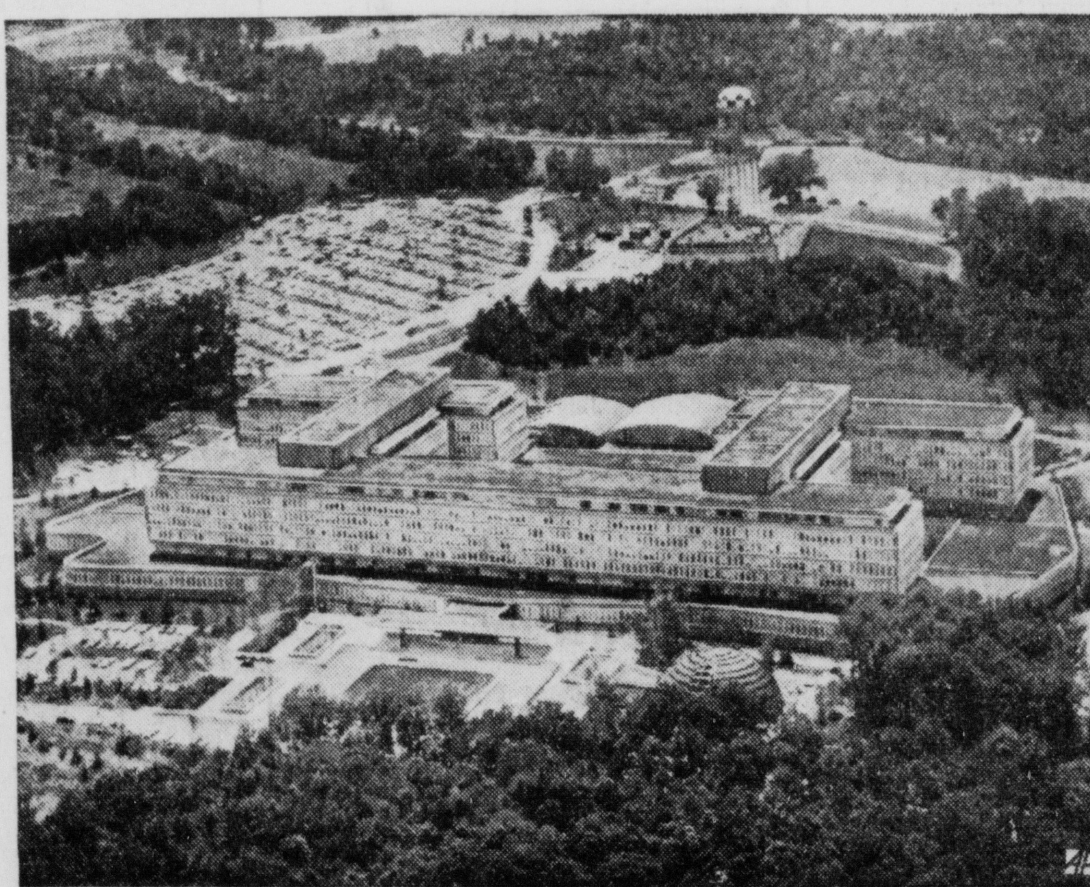

HISTORY PRIMER — Independence Hall is illuminated during "The American Bell," a spectacle dealing with events leading to the birth of American liberty.

GRID GRIND — Tackle Dan James grimaces as he lifts weight to strengthen his neck muscles at Cincinnati, Ohio, before reporting to camp of Pittsburgh Steelers.

DIPLOMAT — Philip D. Sproule, a career foreign service officer, has been named by the President to be ambassador to Cambodia. He's a native of Greenbrier, Tenn.

CIA HEADQUARTERS — The Central Intelligence Agency's new headquarters in McLean, Va., is now completed and in use. It is in a wooded area near the Potomac river west of Washington, D. C., and about eight miles from the nation's capital.

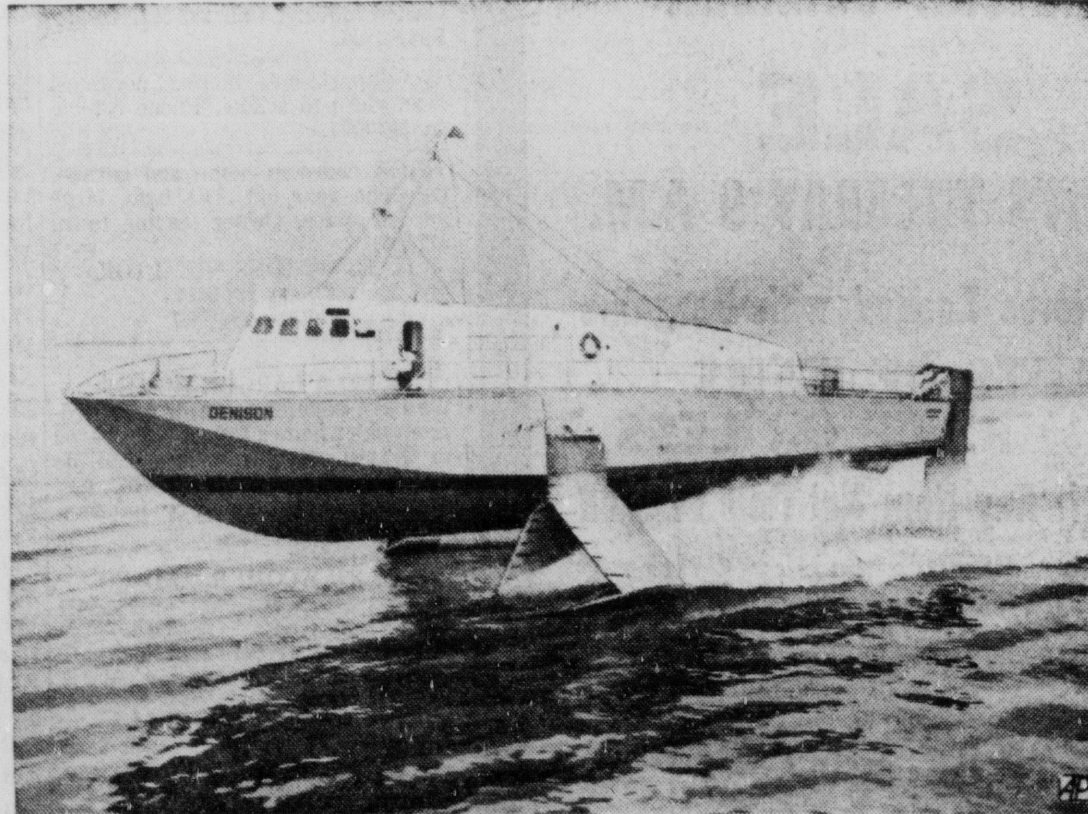

BEACH MECCA — View from Steeplechase Park parachute jump shows Coney Island beach, boardwalk and play area. Million daily visitors is not uncommon.

WHERE REVOLT FLARED — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, in campaign garb, looks out over the Sierra Maestra mountains in Oriente province during June hike. He revisited the area where his revolution started to topple the Batista government.

BIRD WATCH — A black spaniel keeps eye peeled for wandering cats as it guards a rook while the bird's owners are attending school at Canterbury, Eng.

OUT FOR TEST RUN — The H.S. Denison, 90-ton ocean-going hydrofoil ship, makes test run on Long Island Sound. As the craft reaches a speed of about 26 knots the hull lifts from water completely, freeing itself from the normal water resistance.
